

BOAT RACE TIMES

Times in black are real elapsed times as clocked on the day. Times in green are with one watch restarted after the stoppage.

* denotes which crew we thought at the time was leading by a fraction when the mark was reached, but we have not 100% confirmed as online footage not yet available to re-watch.

The Boat Race

	CAMBRIDGE	OXFORD
Milepost	3-42	3-42*
H'smith Bridge	6-42*	6-42
Chiswick Steps	10-23	10-23*
Race stopped at 10:32 with Oxford slightly ahead (about 1 seat)
Race restarted at 41-20 before Chiswick Steps
Interval for stoppage 30 minutes 48 seconds
Chiswick Steps (2 nd)	41-55	41-55	crews level
(since restart)	0-35	0-35
Barnes Bridge	45-21	45-30
(since restart)	4-01	4-10
Finish	48-11	48-24
(since restart)	6-51	7-04

The finish margin of 13 seconds was judged at four and a quarter (4.25) lengths.
Finish judge was Ben Kent.

Ben Kent also adjudicated the final time of the race to be the consolidated times of the crews as they raced (ie the overall time with the stoppage subtracted), therefore

Official race times: Cambridge 17-23 Oxford 17-36

This therefore represents the time for which the crews were in action.

It is not a measure of their real speed since they ended up having rowed one small section of the course twice. Not a 4.25 miles this year, more like 4.5 (ish).

Some will suggest that the times to Barnes and the Finish should be calculated better by adding the first Chiswick Steps time to the short times for the second race. However, that is very inaccurate. The crews had a half-hour rest, which means they were considerably fresher when they restarted at a point where most Boat Race crews would be very tired and running out of steam. And the tide had changed by the time they restarted, how much and whether faster or slower was not measured. So any talk of "one of the fastest races in history" is very misleading.
